

Tidelands Bill for States Cancels Out

a Political 'Scal'

Some Northern senators are now using to the fullest the time-honored weapon of the States-Righters — the filibuster — and we accord them the privilege even while disagreeing violently with what they say.

The issue is a bill to confirm the states' ownership of tidelands oil — the submerged lands, that is, three miles off the coast, except for Texas and Florida where the limit is 10 miles.

Ever since the founding of our republic the title to these lands has been presumed to be in the names of the individual coastal states. But the buildup of an oil industry on some of those submerged lands aroused covetous minds in Washington during the Roosevelt-Truman administrations — and a plot was hatched to steal them in behalf of the federal politicians.

I disagree sharply with my friend Senator J. W. Fulbright when he argues, as he did in the United States Senate last Tuesday, April 21, in the language of the Associated Press report that the U. S. Supreme Court had settled the legal question of tideland ownership by ruling "these assets belong to the United States."

So, he added, the question before congress is whether the riches of the off-shore lands shall be given to a few states or devoted to the education of all the people of the nation.

The U. S. Supreme Court, as you know, took a federal lawsuit that was drummed up by the New Deal's young lawyers and by a flat judicial edict attempted to say that the states' property now belonged to the federal government.

That was one of the major issues on which Adlai Stevenson, "Hurricane" Truman's hand-picked nominee, went down to defeat last November. And the Eisenhower administration, true to its pledge, now has a state-ownership bill poised for passage in the congress — as soon as the filibuster has worn itself out.

Senator Fulbright's claim that the U. S. Supreme Court's decision on the tidelands is important overlooks the fact that the late President Roosevelt destroyed the integrity of the court and packed it with men of political rather than judicial temperament.

Of a court wholly disinterested in the tidelands matter we might have expected a decision reading the riot to the Washington politicians — instead of callous endorsement of scheming robbery. We might have expected a decision telling the politicians if they wanted to seize the states' property they would have to go about it by honest legal methods.

The only legal procedure would have been to pass a constitutional amendment through the congress and refer it to the states — and if three-fourths of them ratified it the seizure would have been justified. We had to go through this same course to legalize the federal income tax, and on every other question in which the federal government sought to invade the long-time rights of the states.

Arkansas has no tidelands. But Arkansas does have a public conscience.

And I don't think our people are going to stand by and see the property rights of a few states crucified simply because they are in a minority. For once you permit the robbery of the other fellow you may expect to be robbed yourself, in due time.

Test Vote on Tidelands Is Likely Today

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Taft, declaring "filibusters are weakening," timed today for a test vote in the wordy battle over ownership of the oil-rich submerged coastal lands.

The Ohio legislator said he looked for a clearcut show of strength late today on an amendment by Sen. Anderson (D-NM), an advocate of federal control of the controversial areas.

But Taft said he was "not awfully optimistic" about setting up a date for a final vote on the House-approved bill which has been a storm center of Senate debate since April 1.

Anderson's amendment would knock out the bill's provision to establish state title to the offshore lands within the states' historic boundaries. It would substitute provisions to give the federal government title to the lands, with 37½ per cent of revenues from offshore developments in the marginal sea going to the coastal states.

Backers of federal control, while conceding they are outnumbered 2-1 by senators favoring state control, have held the floor in long speeches which they contend are designed, not as filibusters, but to "educate the public."

Taft has threatened around-the-clock meetings as routine beginning tomorrow, unless there is early agreement on a date for final voting. He said he might move to keep the Senate in session next Sunday.

Father of Prescott Man Is Happy

PRESCOTT (AP) — Another Arkansas prisoner of war has been released by the Communists and to his father it meant "jumping and hollering" with unrestrained joy.

Pfc. Frederick N. Muldrow, 25, of Prescott, was in the latest group of POWs to be released. Muldrow's 79-year-old father, Elijah Muldrow, heard the news over the radio, Saturday night. The retired janitor said, "I don't know what I did when I heard it. When I came to and realized what was happened, I was jumping and hollering."

The son was a member of the 9th Regiment, 2nd Division, when captured in December, 1950, in Korea. He is unmarried and one of seven children. Muldrow's mother died about two months before he entered the Army in September, 1950.

Nobody Every Really Kills Time . . . That Old Boy Simply Keeps Creeping Up on You

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — The biggest problem in everybody's life is how to spend his time.

There is an old saying that "time is money." But, of course, it isn't really. It is much better than money. The Philadelphia mint never coined anything as precious as a month . . . a week . . . a day . . . a minute . . . or a single second if it is a second that gives your life a golden meaning.

Time is much more important in the economies of a lifetime than money. It is like money only in that a fellow only begins to realize its true value when he doesn't have enough left to buy the things in life he wants with it.

Most people learn to spend money the hard way — through trial and error. They make mistakes by buying the wrong things at the wrong time, and experience teaches them to do better.

One of the saddest of living is that many people never acquire the skill of spending their time as

Security Tests for Government Workers

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower today ordered tough new security tests for all government employees.

He signed an executive order, effective in 30 days, abolishing the old loyalty program instituted by President Truman in 1947.

At the same time he directed the head of each executive agency and department to institute strict new security programs for their agencies.

Like the old Truman program, the new one is designed, basically, to rid the government of subversives and disloyal persons. But the new plan is also designed to rid the government of persons whose loyalty is not questioned but whose personal habits might make them careless with government secrets.

Mr. Eisenhower's order said it is in the national interest that all government employees "shall be reliable, trustworthy, of good conduct and character and of complete and unswerving loyalty to the United States."

The new program has been many months in preparation. It was made public at the White House after Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr., had explained it to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) and other members of Congress who have been most interested in the problem of government loyalty.

The committee also will review 10 other posts to be filed. The revenue collector's job now is held by Olin S. Godwin under Civil Service appointment.

State GOPS Seek Revenue Job

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Candidates for a $12,000-a-year internal revenue collector's position and 12 other jobs were to be chosen at a meeting of the Republican State Committee here today.

The committee also will review 10 other posts to be filed.

The revenue collector's job now is held by Olin S. Godwin under Civil Service appointment.

Bank Experts to Tell Findings in Dierks Deal

FT. SMITH (AP) — Two government bank examiners will tell a federal grand jury today what they found about an estimated $200,000 shortage in accounts of the banks of Dierks.

The Grand Jury reconvened today to open the third phase of its investigation into the shortages. The last session ended Jan. 22 and today's meeting had been delayed since March 30 in order to hear the government examiners.

Prosecuting Attorney R. S. Wilson said Mrs. Opal Simmington, assistant cashier at the bank who is charged with falsifying the books, will not appear at the current session. Mrs. Simmington appeared at the two previous jury hearings.

"If she comes this time it will be on her own," Wilson said.

In Washington the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said its two examiners would appear before the jury today.

Pending study of its audit of the bank's affairs, concluded only last Saturday, the FDIC said it would not say how large the shortage discovered last August would turn out.

However, an official said, it looks like $200,000 would be closer than original estimates of $285,000. The FDIC has settled with depositors and the State Bank of Horatio, Ark., has opened a branch operation at Dierks.

The FDIC would not indicate where it thought responsibility for the shortage lay. It was assumed in Washington that the FDIC examiners, whose names were not given, would give the grand jury their opinion on responsibility as well as the FDIC analysis of how the shortage came about.

Mrs. Simmington was arrested last August shortly after an initial shortage of $17,500 was reported in the bank. She entered no plea to the government's charge of falsifying the books. Since then, under a federal court order, she has undergone a 30-day examination in a U. S. hospital and received a clean bill of health from examining physicians.

Wilson refused to predict whether the jury would take any final action during its present meeting.

Lawyers Must Belong to Bar Asso.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today said that eventually all lawyers practicing in the state will have to be members of an organization set up under high court jurisdiction.

Over the vigorous dissent of two of its members, the Court granted a petition for integration of the Bar in Arkansas.

That will mean, when details are completed, that all lawyers will have to be members of a formal Bar organization and will have to contribute towards its support. The alternative, according to a dissenting opinion, would be "disbarment."

University of Arkansas Band to Play Here

Superintendent James H. Jones announces today that arrangements have been completed for the University of Arkansas band to play a concert in the high school auditorium Wednesday night, May 6, at 8 o'clock. The University of Arkansas band is under the direction of E. J. Marty and will consist of sixty pieces for this concert tour.

The Hope High School band and band mothers club are arranging for overnight accommodations in private homes for the University band members. Mrs. A. A. Halbert, president of the Hope band mothers club, has asked that anyone who will take care of one or more band members on Wednesday night to please contact her or some other member of the band mothers club. Tentative plans are on foot by the Hope band group to entertain the University band members with a coke party in the band building after the concert.

Mr. Marty, in his few short years as director of the University of Arkansas band, has built this group into one of the finest playing organizations to be found in the country. This is the first time for the U. A. band to play a concert in the city of Hope. Previous plans by the University include about a two week tour throughout the state which will certainly afford the people of Arkansas a good look and listen at their state university band.

Court Reverses Huge Judgment Against AP&L

By LEON HATCH
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today set aside a $265,000 judgment against Arkansas Power and Light Co.

The Court sent back to Craighead Circuit Court for a new trial a case growing out of a fire which destroyed the Northern Rice Milling Co., plant at Gibson Switch Nov. 10, 1948.

Owners of the rice mill and their insurance companies contended that the fire started because of excessive voltage carried into the mill by power company lines.

The trial jury returned the $265,000 judgment.

The Supreme Court, with one dissent, said that the trial judge erred in two of his instructions outlining the power company's legal responsibility in the matter.

The court said that whether the fire was caused by excessive voltage was a question for the jury to decide but that a reversal was necessary because of the erroneous instructions.

AP&L had denied that the fire resulted from their wires being overloaded. The majority opinion was written by Associate Justice Sam Robinson. The dissent was entered by Associate Justice Paul Ward who said he did not consider the trial judge's instruction faulty.

The court awarded custody of eight-year old Julia Gene James to her grandmother and grandaunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wade B. Henry of Atkins.

The decision reversed a finding of the Pope Chancery Court who said that the child's father, Continued on Page Two

Truce Talk Compromise Shaping Following a Split on Four Points

Clark Offers $100,000 to First Communist Pilot to Deliver Russian Jet Into U. S. Hands

TOKYO (UP) The United States tonight offered $100,000 and refuge to the first Communist pilot to deliver a MIG-15 jet fighter into American hands.

The dramatic unorthodox bid for one of the Russian built jets was made both in leaflets dropped in Northwest Korea and by radio broadcasts beamed to Communist China and Korea.

It was made in the name of Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. N. supreme commander and commander of U. S. Far East Forces.

Clark offered Communist airman $50,000 for each MIG delivered in fact to non-Communist territory and a bonus of $50,000 to the first pilot to accept the offer.

The leaflets gave directions on how the plane could be brought safely through the U. N. fighter screen and anti-aircraft defenses to Allied bases in South Korea.

The offer apparently would hold also for Soviet pilots at MIG bases in the Sakhalin or Kurile Islands north of Japan, or for Chinese pilots on the Red mainland only a few minutes flying time from Formosa or Okinawa.

The first broadcasts were made over Korean radio stations late Monday. American planes dropped the leaflets tonight over MIG alley in extreme northwest Korea.

A spokesman for Clark's headquarters said the leaflet planes did not fly across the Yalu river over Manchuria. The main MIG base is located at Antung, Manchuria. Leaflets dropped on the south side of the river presumably could drift to Antung.

The scheme was planned by the psychological warfare section of the U. S. Far East Command.

It followed the method suggested by an American officer to a United Press correspondent in Korea a year ago, and described in a U. P. dispatch.

The sweetwing MIG used in Korea has characteristics of high intelligence officers.

Stripped to bare essentials, it can out-climb and out-run the American F-80 Sabre jet according to pilots' reports. However the heavily armed and armored Sabre has shot down some 11 MIGs for every Sabre lost in air combat.

An American officer said, "Fifty thousand dollars is a cheap price for taking one MIG out of action."

Weekend Rains Hit Wide Region

By The Associated Press

Weekend rains tapered off in Eastern United States and the unseasonable chill across the Great Lakes region and into New England moderated.

Except for near-freezing temperatures recorded in the Northern Great Plains, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Northern Illinois and Indiana, it was a typical April day.

There were showers, light rain or drizzle in the Pacific Northwest, Eastern Montana and Western North Dakota, Michigan and New York state. But elsewhere the weather was fair, and in some part of the Southwest it was hot.

Reds Continue to Hold 3,000 Americans

By The Associated Press

The prisoner of war exchange brought happiness and relief to a comparative handful of American families but for thousands of others it meant disappointment and more dreary days of waiting.

In the seven-day period last week, 140 Americans regained their freedom in Korea.

But there are an estimated 3,000 more still in Communist hands. The end of the exchange Saturday dashed the hopes of their relatives who had waited tensely throughout the week for word their servicemen might be among those freed.

Thirteen Americans were in Saturday's trade.

Among the lucky relatives were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clay Dean of Douglas, Kan. They are parents of Air Force Capt. Zach Dean, released after two years.

"I'm wonderfully happy," Mrs. Dean told a reporter. "At first I cried, but the tears are all gone now."

At Lawton, Okla., Mrs. Cleola Green, wife of Army Capt. Martin W. Green, said:

"I'll bet if you could take my heart beat right now it will be going 90 miles an hour."

Munitions Plant Probe Is Assured

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Roger M. Kyes, deputy secretary of defense, said today the Eisenhower administration will review the whole munitions picture and weed out high-cost arms plants to keep America strong in peace and war.

"Fantastic," Kyes called some of the planning done by the former Truman administration. A speech he prepared for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention there contained the sharpest criticism to come so far from the new administration.

Both Nations Reject Opening Proposals

By LEROY HANSEN

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — United Nations and Communist truce negotiators split today on four points concerning the repatriation of prisoners under an armistice, but there was growing hope a compromise may be shaping up.

The points of disagreement were (1) Which neutral country shall take charge of Communist prisoners who refuse to go home? (2) Whether these prisoners shall remain in Korea; (3) how long the prisoners shall remain in custody; and (4) what is to happen, in the end, to those who refuse repatriation under any circumstances.

But it was believed in some quarters that a compromise was possible under which the U. N. would accept a Communist proposal to make India the neutral custodian of anti-repatriate prisoners and the Communists would agree that the prisoners be kept in Korea until their status has been determined finally.

Lt. Col. William H. Harrison, senior U. N. delegate, rejected at a 62-minute truce meeting today a six-point Communist proposal by which prisoners who refuse repatriation would be taken to an unspecified country and kept there for six months. After that the status of those who still refused to go home would be settled at a political conference.

Harrison said this proposal was designed merely to keep anti-repatriate prisoners in a foreign country until "exhausted and discouraged," they realized they must either give themselves up or face "endless captivity."

Many Agree Budget Can Be Balanced

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Several top-ranking Republicans and Democrats today agreed with Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that the Eisenhower administration can balance the next fiscal year's budget.

But there was a wide difference of views about the Congress keeping excess profits and individual income taxes at present high levels until July 1, 1954, to get the revenue Byrd said would be needed.

And there was evidence that a stiff fight is developing over reported administration proposals to cut sharply the $2,700,000,000 that former President Truman proposed.

The prevailing opinion, written by Associate Justice George Rose, said that of 1,128 active lawyers to whom the petition for integration was presented, 893 signed.
Of the 228 who didn't sign only 25 "affirmatively" offered objections, Smith said.
He added that at the Court's direction letters were sent to all 2,371 licensed attorneys and the relatively light response showed 892 for integration and 455 opposed.
Smith wrote that "we do not think it unreasonable to require every attorney to assume at least a minimum share of collective responsibility."
Smith commented that details still must be worked out and asked that any interested attorneys submit recommendations by Oct. 1 so the integration may be completed by the beginning of next year.
Certain groups in the Bar Association of Arkansas long have sought a compulsory integration. A committee from the Association filed the petition that was acted on today.
The order was issued under authority of Amendment 28 to the state Constitution which permits the Supreme Court to lay down rules for conduct of lawyers.
Chief Justice Griffin Smith wrote a strong dissent in which he said that "under today's decree the majority of this court is saying or clearly implying that no

Ten Persons Meet Violent Death

By The Associated Press
A rash of violent fatalities, including the death of a Wisconsin woman in a 4-car crash at Springfield, Sunday, sent Arkansas fatalities toll to at least 10 for the week ended Sunday midnight.
State Trooper Wallace Parnell said Mrs. Inez Pittman, 39, of Clear Lake, Wis., was killed when the four automobiles killed up on Highway 71, two miles north of Springfield. Nine persons were injured, two critically—Clyde Cook and Mary Frankhouse, both of Fayetteville.
All the injured were taken to a Springfield hospital.
Parnell said Cook attempted to pass one car, sideswiping it and forcing it off into a ditch. The second car traveled a short distance and then rammed a parked car. Cook's car swerved across the highway and collided with the Pittman vehicle, Parnell said.
Two other deaths occurred at West Memphis. A Crawfordville, Ark., farmer, 61-year-old Doyle Moore, died in a West Memphis hospital of burns suffered April 5 when he sloshed kerosene into a stove while trying to kindle a fire.
A body tentatively identified as that of Miss Fariene Tetler of Osceola, Ark., was recovered from the Mississippi River near West Memphis Sunday.
Deputy Sheriff Dave Young of Osceola said Miss Tetler disappeared April 4. Crittenden County Sheriff Cecil Goodwin said the body bore no sign of violence.

U. S. Prisoner Squealed on Countrymen

By The Associated Press
TOKYO — A repatriated U.S. corporal who once escaped from a Red prison camp for four days said today some fellow captives "squealed" to the Chinese about American escape plots.
And an Ohio sergeant said a Chinese officer reported searching 11 days for a wrist watch and wedding band confiscated when he was taken prisoner last month. He said the officer finally gave him a different watch worth twice as much and a different wedding band.
Both soldiers and others told their stories of life in North Korean prison camps to newsmen at Tokyo Army Hospital. They are recuperating after being released in the sick and wounded exchange at Panmunjom last week.
The corporal, Harry E. Purvis of York, Pa., said some captives tipped off the Chinese about Americans plotting escapes. But he gave no details.
He said there were about 15 "progressives" in the camp who "hung around with the Chinese."
Purvis related softly how he slipped out of his camp near the Yalu River and started walking toward Korea's west coast.
Four days later, he said, "Some kids reported me."
"I spotted North Korean soldiers running toward me. I took off but they soon caught me."
"They slapped me, kicked me and tied me up."
The 22-year-old soldier said he was locked in solitary confinement in a small Korean house after being brought back. For six months, he said, no one spoke to him except a Chinese who lectured on Communism.

Stewards Back Denial of Minister

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— A Methodist minister whom two women accused of gazing into their bedroom window with binoculars today had up assurance of his board of stewards' faith in his innocence.
Stewards of the First Southern Methodist Church told the Rev. Glen S. Comfort in a public announcement that they will back him as if nothing had happened. The minister said many members of his congregations also promised him their support.
In his regular sermon yesterday Comfort made no reference to his arrest last Thursday night on charges of disorderly conduct and being a suspicious person, on the complaint of two women neighbors. He spent the night in jail.
Mrs. Charles Kivel told police the minister looked into her apartment window with binoculars from the parsonage back porch as she and her mother were undressed.
Nurse home yesterday. The camera on a rolling tripod followed him and a tape recorder whirled — recording the first crime re-enactment ever filmed by Los Angeles police.
Detectives Al Ortiz and C. S. Stewart said Fredericks, an insurance clerk, told this story:
Last Jan. 7 he and his wife Ruth, 32, got into an argument because she wanted to go back to work as a waitress in a cocktail lounge. He went outside to work in the yard ing but Comfort said there was not the slightest truth to the charges. The case was continued and Comfort remained free on $102 bond after the women failed to attend a hearing Saturday. Comfort declared in court: "I am not guilty of being a peeping tom."

The minister said at the hearing that he was on his back porch Thursday night "for a breath of fresh air" and "saw some women walking around in the apartment next door (but) when I saw them they were fully clothed."

More than four million kilowatts of hydro-electric capacity were installed by the U. S. Reclamation Bureau in its first 50 years.

Man Reacts Slaying of His Wife

VAN NUYS, Calif. — A man acted out for police the way he said he beat his wife to death with a croquet mallet and chopped off her hands with a hatchet.
And while he starred in this grisly drama, swinging the mallet again, a police movie camera and sound equipment recorded his actions and words. Neighbor youngsters watched over the fence, like fans inspecting a movie troupe on location.

Telephone Company Local Taxes in Hope Are Enough to Educate 98 Youngsters a Year

Tax figures are impersonal statistics — until you look behind them at the things they buy.

For example, it doesn't mean much to most people to say that the telephone company paid $8,450 last year in local taxes here in Hope.

But when you realize that this was enough to pay the cost of educating 98 grade school children for a year, the importance of telephone taxes to everyone in the community becomes clear.

In the past seven years, while we have spent $805,000 gross and added 925 telephones to keep service improving and growing with your needs, our role as a good taxpayer has grown too.

Here in Hope, our local tax bill has almost tripled since 1946 — a big and important increase in the telephone company's contributions to Hope's progress.

The Story of Martha Wayne to Appear in Hope Star

Intriguing romance, moving drama and fast action are in store for you as you follow "The Story of Martha Wayne," a new human interest comic strip beginning in Hope Star May 4.

You probably know some people like Martha Wayne — Young, attractive women who are forced to build new lives on their own. That's how the story begins — with Martha and Billy, her young son, on their way to a new life in a new town. The town is Centerville and it is typical of hundreds of average size communities.

Martha's Centerville debut isn't easy — she becomes the center of a local scandal instigated by the town's notorious gossip, Agnes Finch. How Martha courageously fights to clear her name will make her one of your favorite comic strip characters.

Dr. Clay Rogers, Centerville's most eligible bachelor; Zip Barlow, All-American quarterback and heel; Toni Kelton, shrewd siren of the night club circuit; and Judge Murdock, Centerville's friendly and wit, are some of the other characters you will meet in this heart-stirring story about everyday people.

This new comic strip was created by NEA Service, the world's largest newspaper feature service. It is drawn and written by Wilson Seruggs, an artist with an extensive background of illustration work for such leading magazines as The Saturday Evening Post, Life, Collier's and Redbook.

DOROTHY DIX

Engaged Girl's Query

Dear Miss Dix: I'm to be married this summer and have a problem regarding living accommodations. My mother has offered us the second floor of her home, as an apartment, and at a reasonable price. I have told my plans to several of my friends and each has advised me against it. My mother is not one to interfere and has said that we would be treated as regular tenants. I don't want to take any chances and would certainly appreciate your opinion of a newly married couple living in the home of a parent.

MARIE D.

Circumstances Alter Cases

Answer: Few rules of human conduct are so inflexible that they can be blindly followed at all times; among the most flexible are those dealing with in-law relationships. In fact, if I may digress from the immediate problem for a moment, I think there would be no in-law problem at all if all rules were thrown out the window except the Golden one. If all mothers-in-law treated their sons' wives as they themselves would have wanted to be treated as a daughter-in-law, and all brides gave their mother-in-law the consideration that they, in turn, hope to get in the future when their own sons marry, we could shelve forever this particular difficulty between generations.

Since this Utopia has not yet been achieved — and probably will never be — troubles will continue to arise. Marie's household, however, will probably be free from in-law strife since all parties concerned have the mutual consideration that is needed for any harmonious marital adjustment. I would most certainly agree that here is a case where living in the same house with parents is recommended. The reason why the arrangement is usually vetoed is because it's almost impossible for most parents to keep out of their children's affairs, and because most young marrieds would have too great an inclination to continue leaning on their elders. Marie and her mother have threshed the problem out quite thoroughly and have come to mutual agreement on its delicate issues.

The advice of friends is seldom completely disinterested, and it should never be accepted as the sole or final decision in an important matter. Very often they turn around and do the very things against which they have warned others.

Dear Miss Dix: Several years ago my husband died, leaving me with a daughter. I had a good job, and soon we owned our own home and I had money in the bank. Then I met Roy and married him two years ago. He makes a good salary, but spends every week end drinking, so I never see any of his money. Even when he's sober, he is disagreeable, calling my daughter — who is now 18 and a fine girl — all sorts of names, breaking furniture and hitting me. He won't do a thing around the house, not even shoveling snow or cutting grass. Now he thinks I should take his mother and father in.

MRS. P. H.

Answer: Why not tell the good-for-nothing to clear out? He certainly got himself a soft berth when he married you — a comfortable home, free and clear, your savings account to draw on and no responsibilities. Having discovered that you are, at least to all appearances, perfectly willing to keep open house for all comers, he intends to foist his parents on you. Well, if you don't begin to draw the line somewhere, you'll probably wind up by being put out of

Disputed Trade Provision May Be Dropped

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.) said today he is willing to drop a controversial provision in his reciprocal trade bill which would bar any lowering of tariffs to levels found to imperil American industry.

Simpson's new stand seemed likely to go a long way toward averting a sharp, open clash between President Eisenhower and key House Republicans on the touchy issue of tariffs and foreign trade.

The Pennsylvania congressman disclosed his position as the House Ways and Means Committee prepared to open hearings today on his bill to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for one year beyond June 12.

This week's witnesses are from groups which support high protective tariffs. The leading witness was O. R. Strackbein, speaking for a committee of industry, agriculture and labor on import-export policy.

The issue, which often stirs a party-splitting fight in Congress, is especially important this year. Many U. S. allies and some administration leaders have been urging a relaxing of tariffs and trade barriers to permit foreign countries to sell more goods here — on the theory of "trade-not-aid."

Simpson is an influential member of the tariff-handling ways and means committee and chairman of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee — the group that will work with Eisenhower next year to try to retain and bolster the Republican margin of control in the House.

Under the present law, the President has power to negotiate new tariffs below levels determined by the Tariff Commission to constitute a danger to American industry.

Further, the President can set aside Tariff Commission recommendations that current import taxes be increased to provide adequate protection for American industry against cheaper competition from foreign goods.

Simpson's bill, as originally introduced, would have taken away both these presidential powers and would have made Tariff Commission "peril point" findings binding and final.

Simpson told an interviewer he has been persuaded, in talks with administration leaders, that Eisenhower has "cogent reasons" for wanting to keep discretionary powers over tariffs in order to carry out broad policies.

Mrs. Head to Go on Trial May 4

Marquette Gridder Jailed in Robbery

CHICAGO, (UP) — A former Marquette University football player was arrested here today and held as a suspect in the "kill or be killed" $140,000 bank robbery plot that led to a gun battle in St. Louis Friday.

Glenn Chernick, one-time quarterback for the Milwaukee college, was arrested at his home here and held for federal authorities.

The 23-year-old former varsity was postponed after a pre-trial conference before Pulaski Circuit Judge Guy Amisler. Judge W. J. Waggoner who was to hear the case is ill. Reed said if Waggoner is not well in a week, Amisler will preside.

Mrs. Head and her husband, James W. Head, are charged with first degree murder in the death of Mary Wolfe. The child's bruised and burned body was found stuffed into a rain barrel on the Head farm here last December.

James Head has been committed indefinitely to the State Hospital in Little Rock. No date has been set on his trial.

star refused to talk to police.

One bandit killed himself rather than be captured and two gunfights were critically wounded Friday when 100 police closed in on the St. Louis bank during the holdup. A fourth man, believed to be the driver of the get away car, escaped.

Chernick was wounded last February by a watchman at the Central Groceries Cooperative store here. The watchman accused him and two other youths of trying to burglarize the firm. The former grid star was free on bond in that case.

Chernick's arrest came on a tip from St. Louis authorities, it was understood.

But the heart of both problems is the same. You use money to collect things—houses and head-aches, automobiles and vacation trips, bank accounts and income tax receipts. You collect from time, however, only memories, sour or sweet.

There should be a way to teach a child early to try to spend his time collecting the right kind of memories. A good life is one that has been expended in acquiring good memories, that bloom instead of fester in the mind.

If a person does that, it makes no difference whether his life work was repairing watches or building huge dams or bridges. All of us can't design cathedrals, and a man can be equally happy if he only carves in driftwood.

We all play at the edge of a vast ocean, as a clock within us slowly ticks toward silence. The ocean is time.

Bored people with bad memories often say, "I wish I knew a better way to kill time." But nobody ever really killed any time. Time just keeps creeping up on them.

The ocean at last moves up and drowns us and our remaining dreams. But if we have spent our time in the right way, the dreams are still pleasant the regrets are few, and all is well. We go down in immortal peace instead of screaming for another chance.

Infantrymen Smash Back Communists

SEOUL (AP) — Deadly American Sabre Jets flew dive-bomber missions in close support of Allied ground forces today for the first time in the 31-month-old Korean war.

The Sabres — until recently used only for air battle with Red MIG jets — pounded Communist troops and positions.

Twelve Sabres, flown by the 18th Fighter-Bomber Wing, made the strike, the Fifth Air Force said. It did not locate the targets.

Twenty-four U. S. Marine Panther jet fighter-bombers blasted an ammunition factory at Cimampo with 500 tons of bombs while Cora jets hit a weapons and storage area at Haegu.

On the Eastern Front, U. S. 45th Division infantrymen hurled back a pre-dawn attack of 150 North Koreans close to the main Allied line on the Eastern Front.

The U. S. troops counted 28 Reds killed or wounded in the 35-minute company-size attack near the Punchbowl on the Eastern Front.

Four smaller probes also were stopped along the 155-mile battle front, including one against Allied listening posts near the Pantun-jom truce site.

In the air, U. S. Fifth Air Force planes dive-bombed 250,000 pounds of high explosives into Communist

Judgement on Eisenhower Must Wait

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—On Thursday President Eisenhower will have completed his first 100 days in the White House. There will be comparisons between his first 100 days and those of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman.

But these are comparisons with no real significance since the circumstances under which the three men took over the presidency were different. A true judgement of Eisenhower's first 100 days may have to wait a year, perhaps years.

It will have to be pegged not so much on what he has done in these first 100 days but on the plans and decisions made in that period for the future.

Roosevelt took over when the country was broke and bewildered. He had to act fast to prevent collapse, and he did, with one emergency measure after another.

Truman's first 100 days were momentous — the surrender of Germany and the disintegration of Russia — but would have been the same no matter who sat in the White House. It was after the 100 days that Truman had to make the big decisions.

Eisenhower inherited, not a world war or an economic emergency, but situations which, while they contained critical elements, were mainly static. The country was amazingly prosperous; there was no cold war with Russia; there was no hot war in Korea.

All three situations had been in existence long before Eisenhower's election and none called for his kind of solution or emergency handling. Rather, each had to be considered carefully.

The prosperity might not last if the Eisenhower administration was not wise enough to do all the right things as they needed to be done, perhaps one at a time, over a number of years.

But at least with prosperity there was no crisis at home. That may explain why, in domestic problems, Eisenhower has acted at times like a leader and more like a partner of Congress.

In foreign affairs he has followed almost rigidly a policy laid down by Truman. Some few changes he has made seem small now but may be so profound in the long run as to be the basis upon which Eisenhower's first 100 days eventually will be judged.

His plans to bank the French more fully in their war with the Communists in Indochina. Long after the Korean War is over that may be the key to blocking Communist expansion in Asia.

While his administration is talking about reduced foreign aid and defense spending, Eisenhower has cautioned that neither this country nor its allies should relax defense efforts simply because the Russians are making peaceful overtures.

Yet the Russian peace overtures may have been a factor in per-

Reserve Officers to Be Examined

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Col. C.M. Boyer of Washington, executive director of the Reserve Officers Association, says qualified officers can expect to go before promotion boards by July 1.

He said that a new Army policy would permit promotions up to the rank of colonel without regard for vacancies.

Boyer made the statements at a session of the Arkansas Reserve Officers Association's 22nd annual convention here Saturday.

DeGaullists Suffer Severe Setback

PARIS (AP)—Early returns from municipal elections throughout France indicated a severe setback today for supporters of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. The Communists were holding their own and the right-wing Independents and Radicals appeared to have gained strength.

The voting yesterday was to elect municipal councilors who in turn will name the mayors for France's 37,000 communes — everything from 500 population hamlets to the city of Paris. Run-off elections will be held next Sunday, May 3, in races where no candidate got a clear majority.

In the early figures, candidates of De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) were getting only about 11 per cent of the vote in Paris and the same percentage in the suburbs.

The Communists were getting 25.8 per cent of the vote in the capital and 41 per cent in its suburbs but Interior Minister Charles Brune said early today the Reds seemed to be losing ground slightly over the country.

The election turnout was heavy, about 72 per cent of the country's 25 million registered voters.

De Gaulle's RPF scored its first major ballot box victory in the last municipal elections, in 1947. Since then it has run neck and neck with the Communists, each getting about 27 per cent of succeeding ballots to make them France's two biggest single parties.

Brune said the Independents, led by former Premier Antoine Pinay, and the Radicals of Premier Rene Mayer appeared to have benefited chiefly from the Gaullist setback.

De Gaulle, himself, has been less active than usual in the RPF recently and did not make a single campaign speech for the local elections.

Another big factor appeared to be the split in the party last July, when a number of RPF deputies bolted the general's instructions to oppose them — Premier Pinay's efforts to balance the budget by strict economy.

standing the Eisenhower administration it is time now to cut foreign aid and defense spending. If the Russians were acting warlike, it's certain the cuts would not be proposed.

But not in the nation's capital, where Congress acts as a city council. It's still Eastern Standard Time here.

The Senate already has passed a bill authorizing the District commissioners to move Washington's clocks ahead an hour. But the House didn't get around to debating it until today.

When all the oratorical shooting is over, Congress probably will approve — as it always has — the right of the District to go on fast time if it wants to.

MOBILGAS ECONOMY RUN FLASH!

FORD BEATS ALL IN ECONOMY!

MILEAGE MAKER "6" WINS SWEEPSTAKES!

Score a blazing victory for Ford's dollar-saving gas economy! Ford's high-compression Mileage Maker "6" with Overdrive beat every car entered in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run, regardless of size or weight, to sweep the sweepstakes! Ford's winning average was 56.70 ton-miles per gallon.* And Ford's high-compression 110-h.p. Strato-Star V-8 with Overdrive was right up there in economy, too, with a record of 48.55 ton-miles per gallon!

The winning Ford was a regular production car, just like thousands of other '53 Fords you see on the road today. This 1,206-mile trip from Los Angeles to Sun Valley covered all types of driving conditions. The route threaded through city traffic, where stop-and-go driving tests an engine's fuel economy under the toughest conditions . . . and out along the highways of four western states.

The Ford Mileage Maker "6" took all this in stride, maintaining a speed above the required 44.25 m.p.h. minimum, to finish 1st in the sweepstakes! What better proof is there that Ford is the thriftiest car of all? What better way to show why Ford is worth more when you buy it . . . worth more when you sell it!
